

"A place where knowledge is created"

As a leading business university we set global standards for research and teaching by promoting integrative thought, responsible action and an entrepreneurial spirit of innovation in business and society.

Associate Professor of Cultural and Social Psychology (100 %)

The position is attached to the School of Humanities and Social Sciences (SHSS) at the University of St.Gallen. The successful candidate will take up his or her position on 1 September 2022.

Basic Requirements are a PhD thesis, first-class publications in leading journals and an outstanding track record in university teaching. We are looking for an excellent researcher in cultural and social psychology with a publication record that demonstrates high skills in the application of qualitative and/or mixed methods. The successful candidate's research interests should connect with other disciplines of the social sciences and the humanities represented at SHSS, and add innovative methodologies and perspectives to the areas already covered by our colleagues in psychology at University of St.Gallen. Possible fields of study include – but are not limited to – cultures of consumption, inequality and discrimination, generational cultures, technologies and media, mental health and wellbeing.

The teaching load is 8 hours per week. Applicants are expected to teach interdisciplinary courses – mainly in the University's Contextual Studies Programme – and to be committed to the University's self-administration.

The University of St.Gallen offers BA, MA and PhD programmes in English and German. Teaching can be in English exclusively. The University's administrative language is German. If the successful candidate has no prior knowledge of German, he or she will be expected to acquire a passive knowledge of the language within two years.

The University of St.Gallen is strongly committed to promoting equal opportunities and diversity. We specifically encourage women and applicants with backgrounds underrepresented among our current senior faculty to apply.

Further details on the position are available on request from the Chair of the Appointments Committee, Professor Dr. Caspar Hirschi (facultyposition@unisg.ch).

Applications should include a cover letter and the usual supporting documents (CV, list of publications, teaching evaluations and statement, yet no copies of publications and references). They should be submitted online via <http://www.unisg.ch/professorships> at the latest by 29 March 2021.